"Artificial propagation is the only salvation of the salmon packing industry on the Columbia-rice," said on Astora a canner to an Obsortian reporter yesterday. "Ercesive fishing has distincted the number of salmon in the river, and if something effective is not done one of Oragon's greatest industries will go by the board.

"Ten years ago, when artificial propagation was inaugurated, it had a good effect. Then loperations were suspended for a number of yeastfuring which time the river was well fished. Lower prices ground keep these fellows out of the field and give the local liabermen full away.

"A fisiermen's wages does not amount to a great deal, to be sure. Tols year the pack was 350,000 cases, which, at three field pier case, parlich is the average, makes the total catch of fish about 1,500,000. At $1.25 per fish; we have $1.323,000 to be divided among $300 fisherment, which gives them $437.50 apiece for their expansive sords, and as they do not do much during the restof the year, it amounts practically to, it years twiger. That is the general everage; the fiddividual wages from $4.50,000 and $20,000 fish are 633 fish to each boat, which, at $1.25 a fish, would bring $728.75 or each boat, It takes two men to run in boat, and the share of each is $354.77. Tabor Heights is the cream of Mount Tabor, and this elevation is beyond querion the most charming and desirable locality in the vicinity of Portland for a subursan home. The property is divided into large villa tracts, each and every one of which commands a beautiful, extended view of the city, the river and the surrounding fills and valleys. Nothing can shut out this view, and as the city grows eastward there will be a continuous line of beautiful homes from the river to Mount Tabor. Many fine residences are now being built in the immediate vicinity, and with the view, the beautiful surroundings, the certainty of agreeable neighbors, and already established means of rapid transit via the motor line of the Willamette Bridge Railroad Company to the very heart of the city, what more can be desired by the homesecker or what property in the whole Willamette Valley can compare with Tabor Heighte? These advantages, coupled with the rapid growth of the city to the eastward, make this property unparalleled as an investment. OVERHEAD ELECTRIC WIRES.

There is another side to the question of langer to life from overhead electric railway wires than that presented by the National Association of Fire Engineers, in the resolu-tion adopted at the recent meeting in Kan-sas City. The subject has been very fully gons over, not only by the persons engaged in the huriness of huiding electric railways, but by the public authorities in New York, Boston, and other Eastern cities where electric railways are now in use. A mass of testimony has been taken upon it, much of which has been printed and is accessible to those in search of information. The general conclusion reached in those cities has been that an electric current sufficient to run any number of cars on an electric railway may be used under a pressure up to 500 volts without insulation, and without danger to human life, though a person breaking a cir-cuit and taking the full force of an electrical discharge would receive a disagreeable abook. In accordance with these conclusions, most or all of the electric ratiway com panies in operation have limited the pres-sure upon the current in their wires to 500 volts. This has been found in practice quite enough to insure a continuous flow of eleceasily to furnish the power necessary to run any number of cars. The centlemen who are engaged in constructing an electric rail-road in Portland have personally assured. THE OREGONIAN that the pressure on the current in their wires will never exceed 500 volts, and will therefore be free from danger

Some of the natural confusion existing in the public mind on this perplexing subject may perhaps be cleared up by an attempt to state briefly some of the conditions that gov-ern the operations of electrical enorgy. There are three elements to take into secount in any problem of electrical dynamics: the volume of the current, its intensity, and the resistunce of the medium. The static energy of a current, its enpacity to perform work, depends upon its volume, and is measured in amperes. Its dynamic energy, its capacity to overcome the resistance o ducting medium, depends upon its intensity, or, in practical language, upon the pressure, which is measured in volts. The third element in the problem, the resistance to be overcome, is measured in ohms. The last two elements directly correlated, that is, so many volts of pressure are required to overcome so many chins of resistance and permit the current to follow a certain path. The volume is directly related to the pressure and inversely to the resistance; that is. the amount of electricity forces through a the increase of the resistance. To illustrate: the resistance of the copper wire, employed to conduct the current to the cars of an electrical railway is so small that a pressure of 500 volts is enough to force through it a volume of 150 to 200 ampere-The resistance to be overcome here is only the traction of an ohm. That of the human body is, on an average, 3000 ohms. To over-come this and foce through the human frame a current heavy enough to produce certain death, a pressure of 2000 to 3000 volts would be required, though, under favorable circumstances, 1000 volts would be dan-

The intensity of the current is entirely inresistance to be overcome is eliminated. When the only object required is to perform mechanical work and a nearly perfect ne-dium can be employed to conduct the fluid, a very heavy current can be conveyed with a small voltage. This is the case with the electric raliway. The current is heavy, but the voltage is small. No matter how great a volume of the fluid were flowing through the wire, a human body accidentally introduced into the circuit would not receive a fatal shock, because there is not enough pressure (voltage) to overcome its resistance. The case of the electric light wires is very different. Here the object to be plished is not to perform work, but to over-come resistance artificially created in order gives the light. In the are light, the resist ance to be overcome is that of the sin b ance to se overcame is there in air pe-tween the carbon points. In the incan-descent light, it is that of the carbon loop. The current need not be very heavy, capacitify in the smaller lights, scence. Accordingly, the voltage of the current in electric light wires is from 1000 to 3000, enough to produce a fatal shock when the human body as made part of a circuit. Hence the necessity of carefully insulating the main wires of electric light circuits, whether are or incon-descent, and the frequent fatal accidents re-sulting from the destruction of insulation. It aught to be said that the switch wires it ought to be said that the switch wires bearing the diternating or divided current for incandescent lights into houses, are innecessed, though the street mains of these are as dangerous as those bearing the street mains of these are as dangerous as those bearing the street mains of these are as dangerous as those bearing the street mains of these are as dangerous as those bearing the way, coming from the use and the said that the said outs. The property of the said that t direct current to are lights. This explana-tion should make it clear why the heavy but weak current of electric railway wires is comparatively harmless, and may dispense with insulation, while the smaller but more intense electric light corrent may be

A PERVERSION OF BENEVOLENCE.

The distribution of the Johnstown relief fund it seems, follows the general line of benefactions which proceed upon the basis that "to him that hath much shall be given." These who lost property in the great flood are to be path from the find a percentage on the basis of 30 per cent. on losses. The tendency of this distribution is manifestly to fayor the wealthier class and leave the poor, whose little all was swept away comparatively unassited. Several necessaries and others who lost heavily, but still had considerable property left, are listed to re-bedye $10,000 each, while the poor widow's

I appears that the abounding generosity of the people in the bestowal of this fund, exceeded the limits of prudence. It certainly should not be deemed necessary to add to the possessions of the well-to-do, and any plan-of distribution that thus diverts a charity from the intent of those who gave it is unjustifiable. While it is not pruient or wise to give a class of people who, under the best that they are ever able to compass for themselves, are hand-to-mouth livers any considerable sum of ready money, the kind intentions of benevolence toward them might be carried out in providing such as these shelter and supplies in food, ciothing and fuel for the winter. While worthy peo-ple, and especially those who have fumilies approach the incloment season in absolute wart of these common adjuncts to com-fort, a distribution that leaves them unprowided for and adds thousands of dollars to the assets of the man of means is a perversion of benevolence that is without excuse.

The educated Japanese is an agnostic. The Fraperial University of Tokio is described, with its 8000 students, as "the holbed of intactity, the seat of agnostic philosophy. These are words of a missioners, recently returned from Japan, spoken before a council of ministers at Chicago. The educated Japanese agree in the total rejection of supernaturalism in religion, and treat a opiniar change of religion as they do a change of the national dress to the European costume.

In other words, the Japanese thinkers and statesmen are charmed not with the orthodox Christianity, but with the reaterial civilization of Christian nation, and are rough to accept our religion with the rest of our civilization. If our civilization swore by Socrates rather, then by Clims, these Japanese utilitarian thinkers would sceep it with the same cheerfulness. Of course these Japanese statesmen and references are materialists, who think of religion of any sort as a delusion, dear chiefly to women and all other persons whose chi dike minds grapple vigorously with gossip and diarnally delight in 'chronicling small neer." In fact these Japanese reason very nuch as did the Indian who said that he could not coinill, but he was disposed to think very well of the god of the white man, because he had given him firearms and "fitewater," which people. The Japanese judges that a Christian civilization means "more power to his arm" and he takes it, theology cause he wants our art, our arms, our power; to get on fast in this world. Whe her h gets on fast in the next world or not, the Japanese neither knows nor cares.

A COMMON EXPERIENCE

The Income Ledger accredits the present semi-lawless condition of affairs in that city to three concessions that have been made to the sations there within the past, year. The first of these was the repeal of an ordinance requiring saloous to close at midnight, thus providing lounging places for vagrants and encouraging his class to come and remain in that city. The second was the failure of the ordinance providing for a salcon license of $1000, the highest figure permitted by the territorial statute, the result of which was to election of officers known to be a syrrpathy

Scuntor Manderson is one of the last men in Jublic life one would expect to find mixed up in a money grabbing enterprise of any kind-least of all a pension grab. He was a good soldier with an hone able fighting record, but has never been known to clamp. There is something comical in the good natured cynicism of the Japanese attitude toward Christianity. The Christian converts are estimated at 13,000 out of a population of $5,000,000, but the outlook for the future is more premising, because Japanese who have studied the English who have studied the English who have studied the Christian convergence of personal convergence of person, was a surprise and regret to those conduct is proband remains a surprise and regret to those who know him best. Had be been more selfish or less considerate of others he would have promptly, sont back the pension draft the day of his return from the West, in the very thick of the storm which finally drove Tamer out of the pension office, without regard to the effeet of his act upon the commissioner's for-tunes. > Dr. Sternberg, of the United States army. contributes to the annual report of Surgeon tieneral Hamilton an interesting, paper giv-ing the re-ults of investigation for the pre-yention of yellow fever by inoculation. A careful and thorough investigation convince him that the method is not protective, and is therefore varieless. The study of yellow fever has been exhaustive within the past few years, with, as yet, small results in the way of the prevention by cure of the disease. Medical science is not a force that grows weary or discouraged in the field of investigation, however, and it will yet record a triumph over this most dreaded scourge of ine tropics.

Bicyclists are straining every nerve to prove that they are as good as horses. One of these wheelmen made a mile in 2:13 in Peoria, Ulinois, yesterday, 'thus coming within one second of the trotting record that the famous stallion Artell made on the turf last week. The ambition of some men is in

SOCIAL DISCONTENT. Our despatches yesterday announced that the Chicago socialists hissed the American itag, which was about as logical an act as it would be for the town poor to hiss the poorhouse and the town, for nowhere else in the civilized world would these socialists be permitted to hiss the flag of the government, accompanied by threats to make our cities centers of revolutions. Nowhere class is there as free an opportunity for the imported poor to better themselves; nowhere clas is there less reason for the social malcontent become contented, if he is willing to play the part of an honest, industrious law abes has become the heneficent almshouse and hospital for the social incendiaries and malcontents of the world, nevertheless it is

The other day when THE OREGONIAN broad sense the indigent poor classes are those who lack intelligent skill, industry, economy and self control, that the vital statistics of Germany showed that directly and indirectly depraced morals are chiefly responsible for the evils of pauperism, since the seeds of physical mental, moral and social weakness are transts to their posterity, a leton correspondent foamed at the mouth because we seemed to consider as plausible the philosophy of Mr Warren that there is no place in the economy of nature for the speedy redemption of 'lame We can and do build asylums hospitals schools, churches and organized charities of all sorts, but after all it is the ality, which is the expression of the instinct of self preservation, must go to the wall which has so free an expression in the passions, who practices economy, temper-ance, chastity and thrift, who accepts the opportunity of our free schools. 18, as a rule, ever found in the ranks of the indigent poor To pretend that miserable poverty in the To pretend that miserable poverty in the mass exists in America because of political or social injustice is absurd. And yet this absurd doctrine, which holds somety responsible for the fathure of the individual rather than the individual for his own faults and failures, is supported by men of intelli-gence like Henry George, Professor David son, Rey C M Morse, Father McGlynn, Rev Hugh Pentecost, and most recently Edward Beliamy ,Their remedies are all of a piace They would have society, after its escape from the fendalism of the middle ages, after its emandipation from the pater-nalism of modern Europe, to return to what is nothing more noriess, however artistically it may be disguised by rhetoric, than to the philosophy of feudalism and paternalism. Mr. Bellamy's book is happily entitled 'Looking Backward' That is just what his philosophy is—"Looking Backward" to feudalism and paternalism instead of continuing to follow the flag of individualism.

ing to follow the flag of individualism. which teaches every man that his fate is in alsown hands, teaches him to look up to personal affort and not down to dyspeptic despair, to 'look out and not in, to look forward and not tack "to lend his own paternalism presched so eloquently and artfully by Bellamy has been tried over and wated the evils it has tried to cure The remedy Increases the cisease Paternalism in edy increases the cisease Paternalism in the state clips the wings of individualism, makes its feet fast in the fetters, and yet it newer makes the 'lame ducke' of civilization whole, or cleanses its moral lepers by recruiting good citizens from the ranks of crime. It is like the organized charift as which multiply beggars, make indolence more mert, the unthrity more thriftless, the spiritless more davoid of self-respect. The state can devoid of self-re-nect. The state wisely help no man to anything that will lift him to success, beyond the education of that naternatism should end, and individualism be permitted to assert itself "Looking Backward!" would care all in-content and misery by a national syndicate, which owns till the means of production and governs all the andmatry and distributes to each individual in the community an equal sharp in the "otal product." Government to-dey exists to administer justice and guarantee to the individual his freedom of action, but under Bellamy government would take care of and direct all action Covernment to-day contents itself in se-curing to the individual the achievements of his individual efforts at protects have delividual efforts, it protects his indiridual liberty, property and freedom to pursue his own road to individual happiness wi-hout interference by the state, so long as he does not ride over the common rights of his fellows who are equally bent on individ his fellows who are equally bept on individual efforts for the bighest self attainment. Beliamy ignores the fact that poverty in a fee people in the largest sense is nothing but the inequality. that results from unthrift unwisde immorality Its cure would be to make the indolent industrious and skillful the im-moral charte temperate and self-restrained in all things. But Bellamy would abolish thruit by abelishing its motive and aspira tion, by abolishing individual production and individual accumulation. The state ould preduce distribute equally to all infunction a production intellectually or physically In other words Bellamy would substitute paternalism for the doctrine of individual ownership and free competition, and he argues that under the principle of competition there he grow reher and fewer and the poor grow pooper and more numer out, that the few rich are rich at the Cx pense of the poor that the rich under the protection of the law dear we the poor of the wealth the poor have created

The ons-lessness of the assumption that under competition her chigrow richer and Iewer and the poor grow poorer and more numerous is sold as the outsilism prached by Kari Mark but it is completely disproved by general six to I is Great Bravin the sverage if come of the poorest plays rose from $265 , er family in 1850 to $415 in 1880 the next coast afore with annual incomes from $750 o $5000 to increased in numbers so that u e ch milbon of the population there were in 1821 two and one half times ciass with incomes from $0000 to $15 000 a year, had increased to double the in each million. The statistics of the United States show the same results, according to the investigations of Reward Athenson and Carroll D Wright; and the great writers on political economy in France, England and the United States agree in announcing that "as capital in creases it draws a smeller proportional amount-from the product as its share white labor gets a larger proportional amount." The result, of thrift and copromy benefit the unthrifty and the producal as well as the rich, for while the muth the person burns his life and capita away in pleasure the thrifty toyest, his money in the means of production, and this increases the lotal reading two power of the community. The unthrity write their names in wrecks, the thrilly write their names in new ships, or as Frof. Herris puts it: "One economical person benefits Tie Oregonian. puts it: "One economical person benefits another, and the average producing are ac-cumulating power of each individual in a thrifty community is greater than that of a thrifty community is greater than that if the thrifty individual in a community of tadio lent and improvident people" It is not true then that the rich are rich at the ga-

pense of the poor
The blunder of Bellamy is the blunder of Brook Farm He usets human nature as if it had no other needs but food clothing workingmen and yet there is deep social discontent there too because of this very suppression of individualism that Be lam desires Human nature is a boiling pot applications and passions that aspirations and passions that can neve be satisfied with or long patient under pater-

A SHIFTING CENTER OF POLITICAL

The wide circulation given to Senator Histock's speech at the laying of the corner stone of the Union League Club in Brapklyn invites public attention newly to the political consequences likely to flow from the increase of population and the growth of new states in the Northwest. They potential consequences are broader and far her reaching than it suits Schutor Hiscock's present purpose to recognize. The local leader of the republican party in New York finds himself face to face with almost it evi For foudalism and paternalism modern eva-tisation has substituted individualism, party defeat. Ex Senator Platt, with whose party defeat. Ex Senator Platt, with whose political fortunes those of Senator Hiscock are bound up, has gained control or the party organization n New York at the cost of factional strife and bitternor of factional strile and bitterness which promise the democrats an easy violary at the fall elections. It suits Mr. Hiscock to find consolution for this gloomy local tros pect in the contemplation of the waring influence of New York in national politics, and the transfer of the center of political gravity to the interior through the gicwth of new communities in the West. The reasoning of the senator may ret be disputed, so far as it goes. The admission of four new states in the Northwest marks or four new states in the Northwest marks the beginning of a decline in the importance of New York as a pivotal state in national elections which will probably be compisted by the results of the next decembed consus. The close balance between parties in con-gress and the electoral college, which has compalled each to consult the whome and in compelled each to consult the whims and in terests, prejudices and prepossessions of the few thousand ignorant and corrupt voters in New York and Brooklyn, who have held the balance of power there for a generation, will disappear before the next general election. The addition of thirteen almost certain republican members will make the party absolutely independent of the doubtful states in the East and especially independ ent of New York, even without the gain in the West sure to come with the census of 1890 That is to say, with the help 1890 That is to say, with the help of the new states, the republians can elect a president without the votes of either New York, New Jersey or Connecticut. This will profoundly change the conditions under which nominations and electoral campaigns are carried on Yew York will lose the dominance, due less to which has given it a candidate on every successful presidential ticket for half a genera son. The West will nominate the r publican candida e for president in 1802. If he is elected the West will elect him.

If the effect of the shifting of the senter o' political gravity in the Hailed Senter. political gravity in the United States westware stopped here it would be easier to foresee an analyze. What her after Miscock apparently fails to anticipate is the influence of the coming change upon the currents of by into shall have been definitely transferred to the West the republicans of that part of the country will not rest content with numing the candidate and sapplying the leaders of the party Tuey will demand the right to distate principles and shape policies, and they will get it unless a countervailing change in other parts of the country dis charge in other parts of the country dis-turbs their new found supremacy. The West, will not only name the republican candidate in 1892 I ut it will write the plat-form and shape the legislation of the admin-istration if successful. If this means any thing at all it means the shaping of resub-hican policies in accordance with economic principles different from those enunciated in the party platforms in the last ten years and the framing of legislation for the and the framing of legislation for the fostering of different interests from 120sc of which have been the special charge of republican statesmen and lawmakers in the same time. The transfer to the West of the control of party po ley and the shaping of legislation foreshadows the rise of Western interests to a new importance and the con-sequent decline of interests opposed to it cm the republican party of the future if the change new clear y foreshadowed comes about, will choose in its economic legi la about, will choose in its economic legitation to foster the interest of the producer of raw material and the consumer of in the products in the West, rather han that of the inaudacturer for the East, so long the object of its special case. This is a remoter but reaso they certain result of the shifting of the center of published consists which. of political gravity which Eistern observer like Senater Hiscock may not contemplate with the calm satisfaction expressed in his Brookiyn speech

JUDGE SHATTUCK AS UMPIRE The Tycable Between the Employing Plumbers and the Employee Settled at Lest

The trouble between the employing plumbers of the city and their employee has at last been settler and a number of the men have gone to wark. All efforts to arbitrate the matter having Is led it was agreed to leare the matter to ludge Shattuck to decide. Following is a copy of his opinion which will be generally conceded to be a fair and impartial one. This mole of actiling such matters will commend uself to the public, and by on early resort to it u uch trouble and less may be saved both employers and workmen.

CLATSOP COUNTY'S ASSESSMENT.

Actorian.

Act

"If this assessment of Astesant Parker's is allowed to stand, clinton county harmayers will proportionately, pay three times more taxes than any other set of county residents in the sizes. Every other county iries to see how low they can get their valuation so as to have to pay as little as possible of the state tax; byt if this assessment isseonstimed, we in Gistage country will be trying to see how high we am get our values and thus pay three times more than we wouldn't the manal scale ware adopted."

Boiled down, this argument's, that because the other counties awindle, we ought to awindle too, if other counties awindle, we ought to swindle too, if other counties awindle, we ought to swindle too. If other counties awindle, we ought to seize upon the parket is an end of the parket of the legis at the command of those who argum against air and equitable taxation in this county.

The county now has a chause to make a record of itself worthy of imitation, or to fail back deeper in the mud than it ever was in the mire in this regard.

Concord. Mass, Oct. 14.—Yesterday afternoon, while attending a burial at Sleepy Hollow cemetery, two gentlemen discovered that the grave of Ralph Waldo Emerson had been disturbed. The authorities were notified, and found that the grave had been opened Saturday night, exposingthe casket. Whether the remains had been taken or not is not known at present, as the authorities are waiting the return of Dr. Edwari. Emerson, the philosopher's son, who was telegraphed for.
A watch was at once placed at the grave, but the general opinion here is that the miscreauts accomplished their object, and secured at least the skull, which was probably what they were after. Great indignation is expressed.

The undertaker who examined the casket says that it had not been opened, the vandals probably boing scared away prematurely.

Drain and managed to get sixty acres of bottom land on Pass creek and without any definite otigor in view, planted a few apple, plum and peach trees round his house. In three years these trees were crowded with fruit and the rapid sale it met with, particularly the practes, convinced him there was money in the business and he at once resolved upons art ng an orchird. In 1885 he had added co isiderably to his land and since that year has accumulated 50,000 young trees from seedings, which he can sell as readity, at highly remunerative prices, as the fruits from his older trees. These young trees and of the best varieties. So far he has only supplied the local market, but he now conterplates shipping and is raising the best trees for that purpose. [Mr. Trine, however, cultivates somewhat closer than nost Oregon orch radists and consequently no better open afruit can be found in the wide word than the varieties raised in his orchard. He is now extending his borders at least 100 'set up the hill above the creek bottom where he first began and the higher he goes, ike every one else in the business, the healthner he finds the trees and the better the finit. Mr. Trine is full of intelligence and eiterprise, and if his life be spared he will emonstrate thoroughly what can be a sale by fruit raising in Oregon. He knows the business is new at present to the state, and that as we have now the we'd for a market like California, there can he no such thing as over-production for miny, many years to come. But then orchards must be cultivated; they must be either pastured nor meadowed; they need to this care orchards are good property.

I want to say a few words on this popular

SWEET POTATORS I want to say a few words on this popular American vegetable. For many years, after its introduction into Californ in, it was cultivated exclusively, in quantity for the market, on the rich tule lands below Sacramento City. This section of the state was held to be the especial house of the California aweet potato. Like the orange and the olive, lowerst, it hus traveled northward of late years, and is row, to some extent, grown as far by as Mount Shasta itself. But wherever early and late frosts come, as severe as they are in certarl or northern California, neither the sveet potatoes nor the common potatoes can be a general success. So the tule land it still looked upon as the home of the California sweet potato. This limitation in techtity does not exist in southern Oregon. Abovery point in Douglas county, I have seen it growing most inxurlantly, perfect in size and flavor, almost without suy care and at a initiated. Here at Drain, Mr. Trine has it flourishing 400 feet above the treek bottoms, while seven miles west, on Elk creek, T. K. Gardiner, has it still higher. It is an id sayed poistoes will mature, anything can be raised. That is just what I think tile velleys and hillsides of Douglas county are capable of they will grow anything much heeds a a necessity or luxury. I want to say a few words on this popular

THE UMBOUL RIVER RAILROAD.

The most important feature of Drain, as connected the future prosperity of Southern Oragon generally and Douglas county perticularly, is the marveilous facilities the town offers for a railroad to Scottsburg, the point at which the Umpqua river jain, the ocean—an enterprise advancest, I believe, somewhat theyout the initial steps and called the Umpqua river railroad. In all Oregon, I believe there is no such in portant railroad tcheme as that which shall give the southern counties connected with culck and cheap ocean traffic. No lone questions its necessity; no one doubts its ultimate constructio; but, at present, liere are various aspirants for the route and so from a want of hean ony in selection, the scheme remains in aboyance, to the prejudice of the state. It is a pity, indeed, that 'll interested in possessing ocean sommunication cannot unite upon the most fassible route; and by unity of neition, secure its adoption. The closures of Drain are that its route is only 30 miles from tide water and only 280 feet above its level. To an outsider not familiar with all the details of the clifferent surveys, it seems the ledins of this route are very strong. Whether the Oragon. THE UMPQUA BIVER BAILROAD. not familiar with all the details of the different surveys, it seems the claims of this route are very strong. Whether the Ochao-nam can discuss it more fully who will be detailed the discussion of the discussi is much longer delayed. As a gran I investment, with few equals on the coast, the road-cannet go begging tsuch longer. It will be interesting to note whether it is finally built by individuals or corporate capital.

A mile or two south from Drain ate the Snowden Springs, at times bery much patronized, but not so much so of late, although their great curative qualities are fully proved. There is a large house on the property, capable of accommodating fifty greats. It managed with energy, it looks as if the property would nay headsomety. The larger spring is very strong and litter in taste, owing to the dominant element being sulphate of magnesia, the base of crosom salts. At least I judge so from its case and effect on the human system: In this day's drive through the lovely VALLEY OF TOXCALLA,

For which our party had again to thank Mr. Me heron, we saw the old historic home-stead of Jesse Anniegate, who plick d a large train of immigrants over the mountains in early diva to settle for life. In after years,

The Drain Echo, a newspaper, is a feature of the town I must not omit. It is owned and edied by Mr. Thorp, a man who eschews the eternal politics of small country papers and devotes his energies and his brains to the best interests of his district. From this the Echo is popular and rapidly assuming a sound financial condition. Mr. Thorp has also a well-appointed job printing office connected with his paper. A small settlement, three miles north from Drain and six miles south from Ourstock, whence I commenced my pilgrimageth fought the county. The place is of modern birth, but has sleady a history, whith furnisses a good noral. A year age or so a Mr. Bulkley, a readunt of Harvird, and a resident of New York, happened to pass through Southern Oregon by daylight on a delayed train. Struck with the beauty and fertility of the section, he at once leterinhed to make it his inture home. On reaching New York, he gathered around him a yndicate of men, possessing the necessary character, and in a short time they selected Hadson and built a sawnill, as the initial septimation. A small settlement, three miles north from cate of men, possessing the necessary character, and in short time they selected Hadson and built a sawmill, as the initial sep in a long list of enterprise. The mill was built last Fobruary, with all modern improvements, with a capacity of entiring 2,000,000 fect of lumber a year, and up to date has cost over $50,000. Among the sy idicate is a Mr. Heald, an old theatrical mar ager, proverbially a shaip race of men, and to him was entrusted, by the syndicate, it can rying out, under the firm name of Builley & Heald, all the plans originally conceived by Mr. Balkey, embracing a tamery, hotel, etc., besides the sawmill. Bo far the company have only supplied the fowns along the railway with tumber, from Roseberg to Albany. The company enjoy 129 men on the average at prices from $1.75 o $5.50 and. The territory held by procerption and purchase is five miles square; and although the timber of these holdings is immense, it is calculated that when the mill is he constant operation, it will no last over longing camps, but they will be increased next spring. The company's store, effice and residences for the men, are ill large and well built, giving an air of prosperity and comfort to the whole establishment. The mill, with its admirable appointments, is the second largest in the county, ranking next to the 'lardeer mill on the coast. The demand for tumber, all the way from Ashland to Forsland's has of late been imments, and it is generally admitted that all the mills between the extreme points mentioned, put tagether, with their present capacity, cannot supply the demand. So there is pienty of rooms for this enterprising company to enlarge their operations, for years to come, without any fear of over-production. They deserve to succeed, and are just the men, I take it, who will succeed. The local officers are: B. F. Hommell, general manager; T.

G. Jones, store-keeper; Henry Mooney, supersutendent of milt. I beg to acknowledge Dr. Hammell's polite attentions.

perntendent of mill. I beg to acknowledge Dr. Hammelt's polite attenuous.

FERE STONE QUARRY.

Adjoining the mill is a large Irce stone quarry, well opened, but not now worked. It originally belonged to the Mulvany estate, but by marriage with one of the female hirs and by purclasse of her brother's interest, it came into possession of a Mr. Perkins. This pentileman leased it for one year, with the privilege of two renewals on the same terms to a Mr. Kauffman, of Albany, the conditions being that the latter should play $2 every day he worked. But there was nothing in the contract compelling Kauffman to work, so Perkins is out of the quarry for the time being and his $2 a day also, as no work has been done sinke be signed the lease. Adding the fate of the cement quarry at Oakland to the free stone quarry at Hudson, it is pretty clear the propie of Douglas county owning such properties are not very bright in making contracts by which the working of their properties shall be assured. The blunder in this case is to be regretted, as the stone at Hudson is of fine character into would be useful in Portland to-day to a large extent.

A few more particulars of importance and general interest, taken from the county proords, and I have tinished. First is the county's general

As the total indebtedness of the county is only $725,795, the financial condition of the county is evidently in a very healthy condition. The true value of this table is that it gives a fair representation of all the counties from Portland to Axhland. $4,158,985

LAND ENTRIES. According to the records of the public land office at Roseburg for the year July 1, 1889, the improvement in this respect, as it idds to population as well as to material wealth, is also very satisfactory. Weattl, it also very services.

Total acreage. 11680

Some of these, I learned at Eugene, belong to Lane and Benton counties, but as the state gots the final benefit, that thet is not of much importance. The timber entries since the lat of July John must be immensely increased, for all through Southern Oregon, as in other sections. I find a perfect craze after timber lands. According to this land officer there remain about 1.500,000 scress of government land in Bouthern Oregon atill open to pre-emption, and timber lands by tens of millions. 1 spoke above about the difference between assessed and actual values of different properties in Bouthern Oregon as yevy great. The following extract from a recent issue of a local paper sustains this view so far as Douglas county is concerned.

cerned. / LAND VALUES, At the present time about 400,000 acres of land are improved and under cultivation, and this land is divided into some 1200 farms. The estimated value of this land is nearly $4,000,000, and the estimated yearly value of the productions from these farms is a triffe over $1,000,000. The live stock on these farms is estimated to be worth above $800,000.

over $1,000,000. The live stock on these farms is estimated to be worth above $500,000. Wheat FROSPECTS.

In proof of the fertility of Oregon land and the certainty of crop, under any circumstances, we may all refer with pride, not with selicish boasting, to the short crops in Australia, India, Itansis and England. The present season in Oregon has been one unknown before in her history, for a long continued drouth. Yet I was not on a single farm, in Douglas county especially or Southern Oregon generally, except one, where the wheat crop did not reach the usual standard—from twenty-five to thirty five bis-hels to the acre, with oats, barley, corn, in factive everything, except potatoes, in the same proportion. In good seasons, the average crop of wheat in Europe, Australia, India and England, is only seventeen bushels to the acre; in California only lifteen. What more can be said of the enduring fertility of Soutiern Oregon, no matter what the season may be? The present dry season, in its early stages, was looked upon as a curse; in the end it has proved a blessing; for it proves beyond question, that in the southern scenons of the state—nay, perhaps from Portland to Ashland—irrigation is not necessary. Even on the one solitary farm mentohad as under the usual standard, the total yield was twenty bushels to the arre. So it was not a failure in comparison with our own magnificent and bounteous abundance. What more, indeed, can be said for Oregon?

EANNALL.

BAINPALL. An examination into this matter very soon disposes of the improper term of "webfoot" to Oregonians, implying that it rains alt the year round. The only difference between Oregon and the world in this respect, is that what rain comes to her, out of the strictly rainy season, comes in gentle showers which refresh the earth, purify the atmosphere and invigorate the human system. By the official record of rain in Douglas county I find the maximum full for sleven years past was 44.83 in 1879 and the milainaum 22.38 in 1883. The average for the eleven years at 35.05, about the average of the Eastern states and California. Only once in ten years, i find, it failed to rain every month—that was in 1882. In the spring the average raufallm I bouglas county is 3.29, in the summer 1.00, in winter 17.09 inches. As more than half the yearly rain falls in December, January and February, and as most of the plowing is done in the fall and winter this supposed continuity or over-abundance of rain in Oregon is proved to be altogether wrong and the term of webfoot to her people equally absurd. An examination into this matter very soon

CONCLUSION. It is chiefly the people of California who delight most in using the term "Webloot," and unfortunately too often in a depreciatory and unfortunately doorsel in a tenestatory sense. If they will force me into autother little comparison they shall have it.

In California there are only two seasons—the dry and the wet, in the wet days, Annie Fitzgerild, the pastoral poetess, of Santa Clara valley, exclaims in true pathetic eloquence:

Oh! Now the soul of man wearies - Wenries, waiting for the rate. Wearies, waiting for the rails.

Again, the season changes and the whole state is detuged with long-continued, pouring rains. In Central California—that is, from Marysville to Suisun-bay, a raging inland sea 159 miles long and forty miles wide prevails for months and covers the fairest section of the state with desolation and ruin. Again, in these sad days the same loyely pooless exclaims:

Only how the scale of the state of the s

Qhi how the soul of man wearies— Wearles waiting for the sun, But, we have none of there and things in Oregon, with the soil of man wearred by his surroundings—nothing of these things. Neither have we carthquakes, cyclones, bizzards, or convulsions of nature of any kind. Nothing but sunshine and rain, warm and gentle, to fertilize the land and give us our yearly prodigal abundance of all things. Webroot indeed! Well let us how our heads humbly before the Infinite and be grateful it is so—b thankful for our lot.

HOW THE INDIAN IS ROBBED. An Example in the Case of the Nez Pero:s Triba.

Shomeful thuses and a Regular System of Open Thievery Practiced by Unprincipled White Man Was Should Be Their Protectors.

VANDOUVER, Wo., Oct. 9.

ANGOUVER, W. A., Oct. 9.
To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIA:

A few days ago feelings of deep and long-tanding indignation were again aroused in me by a most pathetic recital of dignified patience under an old wrong—a wrong inlonsified a thousand fold by the compound interest of its age. Your paper always feat-lessly champions right and truth, therefore to you I appeal. It is of the Indian, more perficularly the Nez Perces, I would speak. Is there not a mun in Washington or Oregon with a higher imbition than mere political success? Here is an opening for such an one to make his name really live, to leave it to history entwined with honor, respect and ever-swelling eulogiums—for I know it is no light task, in intellect, persoverance knowsty and linesse, who can beat our corrupt linesty and linesse, who can beat our corrupt lines. finesse, who can bear our corrupt anoma-ring, that disgrace to our mation; but the greater the lask the greater the victory; the more powerful the fee the keeper the spur to conquer in the great fight.

Why these Indian rings, for any other rings, shou'd exist at all is a mystery; the great majority of our people are down on them, and we pretend to rhie by majority—often, I tear, it is but pretense, This Indian ring, though, is notoriously corrupt. To be an Indian agent nowadays is almost to lose the respect of all good cilizens, with such opprobrium have those who have held that office caused it to be regarded. An honest Indian agent is an anomaly. The commissioners are appointed, not from any fitness for the position, but because they have "pull." Indeed, their unifitness seems sometimes a reason to the powers that be for their appointment. This is one of the few subjects a foreigner can broach which causes every honest and Tatriotic American to hang his head in shatus. I am no Indian fanatic, I know what their depredations and creatiles have been in the past; but they are savages, and we pretend to be an entightened, civilized people. We are supposed to have a sense of justice. I believe we brag on something quate extraordinary in that tine, and yet year after year we consent to see these helpiers people deprived of their land, approximate the supposed to make the supposed to make the supposed to the supposed to make the supposed to suppose the supposed to the supp estate, appointed a write man administrator, and now between the judge, the administrator and the cowboys that fine patrimony is rapidly disappearing, and because the hears have red skins they are powerless to prevent an audacious piece of this ving which would not have seen attempted on white men. This is some of the justice of our great free country.

A young chief of a still different tribe goes East, enters college, and returns to his people with a knowledge of pusiness and mathematics. Seeing how things to be asks to examine the books of the agent. Is he allowed to do so? No! of course not. Who is? What is the good of being an Indian agent, if, after three years' service, one can not return to civilization with a monortable fortune? And how is this fortune to be achieved if every man, who is a little excited over the singular course of the Indian funds is allowed to examine one's books?

It is quite useless for the Indian ring to deny this. Had they been honest men, or had even the mighrity of them been innest men, they could never have won their present extremely unsyony rematation. Leok at the army. This arm of the government used to suppress the Indian. How does "Lo" regaid an I my officer? He likes him. He trusted him because he had searned to know his work is before than the kond of ten thousand Indian agents, and this is because, as a rule, honor is law to the army. If the Indians is the frethan the kond of ten thousand Indian agents, and this is because as a rule, honor is in to the court—served with them, for years—the Indian question of to-day would be a very different affair. But since it is not so, since we have had no president, no seretary of the interior bold enough to settle this vexed question righteously, can not we, the proper. different affair. But since it is rot so, since we have had no president, no secretary of the interior bold enough to settle this vexed question righteously, can not we, the propic, help it? As I before succested, is there not some determined ambitions wealthy citizen, who is willing to gamong these librations, learn his philanthropy in this direction; who is willing to gamong these librations, learn their needs and their abuses, and help that grand chief, that magnanimous gentleman, loseph, to raise and emapcipate his tribe had caucating them by teaching the a to fight the winter man with his own most powerful weapon, a knowledge of business, farming, politics, above all, our laws; in other words, enable them to make citizens of themselves, and I'll warrant the negro will be nowhere to them. New braining men sit in congress to-day than Chief Juseph, and his tribe are noted for their Lue minds.

We call Indians treacherous, Let us pause a noment. What would we have done in their place? Lowerful as we are, how have we treated them? Ah, it is a painful, shameful thought. What were we better when we were baroarians in the early days of Europe? There is a noble work for the health and incense to undertake it is to be envied.

I have troubled you with this long harangue, Mr. Editor, because I reslize your priper is the greatest power for good in this part of the country; because such a signestion as I have made coming from you would have a weight and bear fruit which up other source could give it. I know it is an old subject, but it is only by reiteration that reforms are accomplished, and after hearing of a recent interview with Joseph I could not refrain from making some effort, however feeble, in his behalf.

All that I have troubled you with this long harangue, Mr. Editor, because I have a weight and bear fruit which up other sources could give it. I know it is an old good a recent interview with Joseph I could not refrain from making some effort, however feeble, in his behalf.

TERRITORY OF IDALO.

Answer to the Article Intended to Discourage the Effort for Statehood. Muscow, Idaho, Oct. 3, 1389.

To the Editor: Tur OREGONIAN of Wednesday Outober 13, contains the following introduc ion to an article from the New York Sun: "A write who has been traveiling through the grent Northwest empire contributes to the New York San the following article on I daho:" The article, attrough containing many la-teresting facts, was intended as an attack upon the statchood movement in Diaho. It was written by one of three persons. First, a Mormon; or second, a "Jack Mormon;" or third, by some person who had seen m's led by one of the other two.

It is untruthful in its statements and unfulr in its defluctions. We quote from the article as follows: "The possible as set." It is uniquitiful in its statements and unfair in its defluctions. We quote from the article as follows: "The population as estimated by Governor Stevenson is 100,000. It is asie to assume that it does not exceed that. (It has not 60,000, of wham one third are Union-lating Mormons. I daho has only 22,600 inhabitants. The census of next year will expose the governor's inflation of numbers.) It is with this population, and with a fairly well establisher but sit we increase, that Idaho is asking for statchood. In the first paragraph of this article it is stated that there are 50,000 Mormon voters in Idaho, from 20,000 to 25,000 Mormon voters in Idaho, from 20,000 to 25,000 Mormon and as little over $2,000 people.

In the fail of 1886, at the regular November election, Fred T. Dubois, can Idahe for congress, received 7812 votes; at C his opponent, John Halley, received 7813 making a total of 15,258 votes cast at that time, It is conceded in Idaho by both reputticans and democrats that the Marmons did not vote at the election in 1886.

The New York San correspondent averathat we had 5,000 Mormon votes in Idaho it that time; but inclusive of the Mormon vote, we unquestionably had 20,000 votes in Idaho it lass.

Taking the usual basis of five inhabitants for each voter, and in November 1888 Idaho for each voter, and in November 1888 Idaho

Taking the usual basis of five inhabitants for each voter, and in November 1826, Idahid might justly have claimed 100,000 people.

It may be claimed that this is not a fair proportion of inhabitants to the voter in Idahio, if this is true that the representation is a large one for some mining districts, its equality true that the representation is smight for the Mormon districts; nor is the vote over stated.

arge one for some mining districts is trequally true that the repsentation is small for the Mormon districts; nor is the vote over stated.

The strict registration laws of Haho, and the remotness of many miners, new settler; upon the public lands, and stock seed, from voting precincts, lost to Haho may 5000 votes in the election of 1836. From these facts I believe the estimate of Governor Stevenson to have been very conservative.

Allow me to quote once more from the was article: "It (Laho) will go to Washington to exhibit its constitution and derie and admission in company with Wydring and New Mexico. Its delegates will undobtedly be supported by an energetic booming lobby of representative citzens, who will make the most of Idaho's possibilities of greatness. But they will find that there will be a serious opposition to the duths. or of Idaho as a state. That opposition will be plainly indicated in the constitution of Idaho as a state. That opposition will be plainly indicated in the constitution of Idaho as a state. That opposition will be plainly indicated in the constitution of its desire to become a full fielded state," The inspiration of the article is here made manifest. Whenever a citizen of Idaho or a person discussing Idaho politics, couplains of the disfranchisment of "our fellow citzens," any person to the "manor born" readily independent, in this particle indignator, thousand of "our fellow citzens," any person to the "manor born" readily independent, in this particle indignator, thinks we are very bold to ask so much led us see: Georgia has ten includer, She be deed the band to materials and her industries new and extensive. That part of my communication in your weekly issue of September 20th, which concerned prohibition, and to which Mr. John P. Robertson, of South Salent, replies, was efficited by a remark heard at the late state fair in a lecture by Bfr. G. W. Denaick, of this country, several times, I believe a candidate for congress on some temperance ticket, in which he expressed his surprise that new man molessing to be a Christian ticket, in which he expressed his surprise that any man professing to be a Christian should oppose probbition. I undertook to show that the wonder is that those who believe in God's methods of dealing with imperfections of mankind as shown in the Bible, should believe in the scheme proposed by the probibitionists at all.

My remarks were confined to this phase of the operation were insidely, and to it Mr.

of the question excitatively, and to it Mr. Robertsen does not address binnelf, except in a manner both oblique and child-like. Nevertheless, he maters a few scharacteristic statements to which the remaint of thosewho once formed a large body of prohibi-tionists still give their approval. Now, the object of nearly, or quite all who once formed a large body of prohibitionists still give their approval.

Now, the object of nearly, or quite all criminal laws is primarily not to make men good, but to punish had men. Good men, like Mr. R. never know the restraining influence of such laws and if they were all repealed to-morrow, would still be good, for upright men are such by the force of character and their innate love of justice and purity of motive, and not as a result of punishment, or pf exposure to temptation.

I am assured by bupdrintendent Downing of the state prison, that there are men in that institution who have not committed a murder for years, who used to be guilty of that awful crime. Since their incarceration, that is, since a "probibilory" law has been enforced in their cases, as to murder, they are as innocent of that crime as hir. Robertson, of South Salem. There are also scores of men there who used to be common irunkalds, out, who, since put under the restraint of a "probibilory" law are as sober as Mr. R. Hundreds of men who used to be bilasphemers of the Christian religion and scoffers at the Bible, now attend church every Sunday and hears of Christ and him crucified. In this respect, they surpass Mr. Robertson's excellent record. In fact, from a prohibition standpoint, the ponitentury is a model institution, because no other community of 200 men can be found anywhere in the state who are so tree of the commission of lawless deeds.

Thereign not a con gregation of Methodists or Baptists in Oregen who come as near attending church en misse every Sunday of the year, as the convicts in the state prison; then will you contend that the latter are the more devout Christians, or hasn't the motive in doing these things is omething to do with the virue to be justly claimed in doing there? There is not a farmer in the state who comes as nearly working full time every day in the year. Mr. Robertson, of South Salem, not excepted, as hundreds of our criminals; are they therefore to be the more rewarded by public lopinion for 'indu plaintiff well to remove the seductive temptation is heard from any prohibitionist anywhere.

By general connent, murder stands as the most iniquious of clames. Yet the cry to remove the templation to commit it is not heard anywhere. Men with large sums of money are allowed by law to go anywhere and everywhere, and thus tempt men to nurder, who would otherwise never think of such a thing!

The, wor d is full of temptation to do wrough, and it is right. The Bible teaches it; the churches all treach it, and the plaincest principles of mental and moral science prove that the power to discen right from wrong is the only 'thing that distinguishes men from the lower order of animals.

The leading advocate of prohibition in Oregon, the professor in Salem, admits it, but how can any man choose between right and wrong, if no wrong exists? Will Mr.
Robertion answer?

If main could go through life without ever nicelink with tempusition to do wrong, where would occur his opportunity to use his conscience, which is he great attribute that alone separates him from the brutes? The very existence of conscience in man implies, even demands, tha, some obstacle present itself which would bring it into use.

To remove all terripations to do wrong, as the prohibition ists would do, would make man good just the same us men in prison are good. The only difference is that in the the prohibitionists would do, would make man good just the same as men in prison are good. The only difference is that in the prison the men are removed from the temptation, while the prohibitionists would remove the temptation from the men; in either case there is not the slightest use for a conscience, since there would be nothing for it to do.

for it to do.

It therefore follows that the prohibitionist lies of making men good is the very same as we find employed in our state prisons; that is, they wil necessarily become good when you in things so they will have no possible chance to be bad, while the plan of the Lord and the republican party is to give the conscience of man full swing and teach him the necessity of being upright in all things and the berett of a xin nine from sin and wong.

necessity of being apright in all things and the beauty of asta ning from sin and wrong-doing for the sake of the right.

I have never seen a prohibitionist who could talk ten minutes without making the statement that 80 per cent, of the criminals sont to our prisons are violims of the temptations born of the hapor traffic. Well, what of it? According to the Bible, the first great crime committed by man surpasses all the evils of the saloon a thousand-fold, and the entire hundred per cent, of that crime was caused by a great tempation which the good Lord himself created. Eighty per cent, is nothing.

Lord himself created. Eighty per cent, is nothing.

You blame the republican party for allowing the saloon templation to exist, but what are you soing to do with the Lord who successfully began the templation business long before the republicin party was ever thought of? It is the leading component part of the divine economy, from the earliest ages. The forty-lith chapter of Isaiah says: "I, the Lord, create evil." See verse 7.

Now, the republican party has never done worse than that during its reckiest days, and the prohibitionists know it, so there?

worse than that auring its rockiest days, and the prahibitionsts know it, so there!

Dea eronomy xiv: 26, says: "Thou shall bestew that money for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oven or sheep, or for wine or for ktrong drink?"

Now, how dues Mr. Robertson of South Edenis appose me, can obey this plain divine, injunction to spend their money for strong drink it the republican party should consent to the closing of the saloons? For my part I am not alling to thus fly into the face of the Lard. Without high license this command of God can never be obeyed.

Prover is xxxii. To reads stollows: "Give strong drink unto those that be of heavy bearts. Let him drink and forget his pover y, and remember his misery no more." Here men are commanded to drink until they imagine hemselves rich in order to forget their poverty. We have all known men who did this very thing only to be held up to get east execution, and who does not remember that in one of his speeches after a dinner where he had imbited of "strong drink" therefreely, Daniel Webster placed his thinmb hid forchinger in his vest pocket and rémarked to his friends who had been discussing the national debt, "Let me see; how much is the national debt; why. I'll pay it on the spot!"

We flave always known that Webster was a great studdit of the Bible, but I never the health and means to undertake it is to be envied.

I have troubled you with this long harangue, Mr. Editor, because I reslize your paper is the greatest power for good in this part of the country; because such a signestion as I have made coming from you would have a weight and bear fruit which up sitter source could give it. I know it is an old subject, but it is an old subject, but it is an old subject, but it is an old your forms are accomplished, and after hearing of a recent interview with Joseph I could not refrain from making some effort, how

So it a clear caso of "Jchovalv vs. Robertson," and in such an evenly balanced contest, when the case shall be fully made, somebody is going to get hart. I trendle for the result.

Mr. Robertson could not close his letter without referring to the threadbare allusion of probibitionlasts to the alleged comparison between the abolition of slavery and a laprohibiting the sale of liquor. There, is tick same resemblance between the two conditions that there is between light and ducliness. Slavery was involuntary, and its vectims were made so by a law as stringent and severe as the ingenuity of the slave musticould devise. Drunkenness is purely vostary, and its victims are made so without the compulsion of any. Inw anywhere. There

If there were a thousand saloons is Salem to-day, they would be permanently closed within a week, without the intervention of any law, if all men would volunter to do right in the matter of liquor drinking and since it is not practicable to make men as suborr as Mr. Robertson is, by the same means anceessfully employed to include the convict as industrious as he is, let us on the convict as industrious as he is, let us on the convict as industrious as he is, let us on.

Dr. Smyth, of the same city, says "When the impresculastic and doubtful in of probibition is finally removed from in field, all temperance people will be able unite in accomplishing whatever may wrought in limiting the power of the school."

The New England states which have the probibitory laws for thirty years are dispecting that theory as rapidly as they have an opportunity to do so. The state's prison intend of governing free men can never successfully administered.

Mr. Robertson accuses me of having written, spoken and voted for the amendment two years ago. So fidd. he was coked upon as the "rising hope of the stern and unbending tories."

That is what Halfour is to-chy. He is the man to whom the old line tories are pinning their every hope. Just at present they are especially pleased with him for just as par hament was going quietly out with honors easy between the parties. Balfour by his strategy with regard to the endowment of a Catholic university in Ireland, had split the liberal party, and the Irish party, too has set Fernell and Day it quarrething again, and filled the breasts of tories generally with glee. It is not certain that all the credit of the move belongs to Bultour. However willing he will get t and he need not care for the uslous wrath that he has surred up in the herests of those other enterprising statemen, Joseph. Chumberlain and Lord Raudolph Chutchill.

THE COUSERVATIVE PARTY It not overburdened with coming men consequently they appreciate Ballour, who consequently they appreciate Ballour, who seems full of promise.

The use of Ballour has been rather a queer one, and it has been one that it is lard to undestand when one considers the apparent qualities of the man. It is true that Ballour happens to be the nophew of the prime munister of Englund which happens to account for a good deal over her, that the does not wholly account for the fact that he has stocceried at least in the eyes of a large flumber of Englishmen, in a postion where pretty much every one before him failed. It is true that he has not been hampered as other secretaries for Ireisind have been Lord Salisbury his seen to it that his tephew should have his own way, and a sweet way it has been. His reign has been a reign of istroy in Treiand, and in that omes happy country no other hame is as detected as that of Ballour. Young children are taught to shake their little facts at the mention of it and it would be impossible to compute the number of curies that have been showered upon it. But Ballour has not been at all invoved by this. Hield his gone skendily sheed with his policy, such as it is.

HR HAS IMPRISONED MEMBERS

Of part ament, priests, men and women of audiow high degree. Nothing has been too big or too hitle for his drag-net. He has been asor too little for his drag-net. He has been assailed as no man has been before, but he has sever budged. A majority of the tory party look upon this as an exhibition of strength.
They like a strong policy. When they rend that a regiment of solders, with the assistsnee of Balfour's misdens, has succeeded ster a fierce struggle in eventing a dozen families somewhere in Ireland, or when they receive intelligence that William O'Brien has been arrested again, or that some unfortunate home ruler has deed in prisen, or something of that sort they rule than hands and congratulate themselves that if this doct of thing is kept up the re belian must soon be orished, and so they sapport Halfour's policy and they awear by Balfour.

To it is that Balfour up helt as a baye to Belfour.

To it is that Belfour is held as a hero in Solution and as a murdorer in Ireland. In Ireland Le is held directly responsible for all the deaths of the home rulers he has sent it prison. Just now they are combining for one great cry of "Murder!" should. Whitner O'Brien die in prison, as now it seems he may

He has held his own with his opponents for the reason that right or wrong he knew the power behind him and refused to budge. How he would have done in the old digs when the frishmen were unhannered hi the present house rules, and when they could worry the queen's ministers at will cannot be known. The Irish members used to drive the late Mr. korster to the borders of mean ity but they are restrained now. However they worry Bullour sufficiently to upset a less self contained, self confident man. He is no match for Sexton O'l conner or William O'Brien in oratory, nor for Figgar, Heisy, Harrington, or half a diz h others in debate. However, he evens things by never seeming to know when he is beaton Batements made by him once made, are made. He nover retracts it may be shown that the statements are all wrong. He calmly stands by time and fails to see any error. And what can you do? I do not believe that he will acknowledge that any member of the home rule purty can tell the truth, or that they can take any position on any question says the wrong one. The most accurate reports of his subordinates in Ireland are held by him to be as gospel truths even after they have been publicly shown to be inaccurate. When he once takes a position he holds it.

He says nothing In fact, Balfour, mental ly, is a curio-ity, That he himself believes these things that no one else believes, is pretty certain, and this side of his character eught to lurnish psychologists with an in-teresting subject for study. Baifour's power to pritate the Irish mem-bens of parliament is simply immense. An

There is no disputing Balfour's prominence over he e just now no matter what you may think of his methods. He is the one active central figure in the conservative part.

Even Lord Salisbury makes less nove or at least seems to, while the saturants Goschen and the cumbersome party leader bands are sinely nowhere compared with the bate nor of the Irish party.

For the big Kerryman A second later no wis of imbering over the benches to where Ballour sat with blazing eves and with three Irish V I s hanging to his cont total It was well for Ballour that big James O'Kol y got in front of Harrington, and assisted by a couple of others, got the intuitabed travious man back to his place. If they high not done so the big later man would certainly have done Lord Salsbury's nephew some serious hurm.

But Ballour did not show the white feather. His face blonched when he alw Harrington rushing at him like a mad bul, but otherwise he remained unmoved the big Kerryman afterward had to apologize for upsetting his dignity of the house the later was the bappened to be in his wy which he made his rut his the Iris secretary Ballou did no apologizing ever when . Night and day by four or more hulling scotland hard delectives. Balfour himserf sout and hard detectives. Balfour himselfs has objected to this. One can scarcely blanch him, for the presence of I rightsh de Lettives is oppressive in the extreme. But he is powerless. The home secretary is responsible for his raiset, so Balfour has to catture the detectives among other axis. That the Irish secr. are in some danger it is true. It is not so great as some in ingine, but it is great enough. Thousands of men and women have been thrown out of their homes in Ire and who blance Balfour and he also for their misfortunes. There is no telling the time when one of these persons in may suck private vengeance on the man whom they believe to have been there chemy. Should by Succept.

As it is said he hopes to in goading Irishmen into open rebellion, he would be the first man marked. But he is not likely to succeed in this Again, if he should succeed in discrediting Parnell and in breaking up the national league, things would be almost as bad. The restraining influence of the present leaders, who do not believe in withereas, would be removed. The Irish people finding that the great party on which their bopes had been bimided had been derived ould lose all hope of achieving their with a by peaceful means, and their disorder and violence would begin again and affairs would go beek where they were forty Jeens ago. Some of the guas that are now ying buried all over Ireland would be brought out again and there we she do more shouling from behind hedges and consequently more bangings. There would be more stempts at rebellion. The queen has an army by enough to quell these, or even to wige a war of extermination. But would the game be worth the caudie? The queen even in these queet times, her over 25 000 solders in I e and and in one way or another the ever waxeful cat manages to keep them buys. SHOULD HE SUCCEED.

Even the old pioneers have eaught the fever, so has the Northern Pacific Railway, Company, who are expending large sums in building sidetracks, roundhouses, etc.

Transment of Milch Cows, and How to Core an Inveterate Kicker.

The Evils of Undue Haste in Pattering Potato Rot-Ho Keed of Poverty—Saving Onions —Household Notes.

Nearly every dairy has its quotim of kicking coves, shys the American Agriculturist, and every cow in the land is liable to switch inclined that way, like a balky those that only use their rear in offensive mainer to resent gether, buckle it tight. Place her in a stamethou next to the wall, and from a ring in the later let a long strap depend, which, after passing around her right-fishe, draw fart to the standhion braces near-her hend. The cow is then practically helpless see far as any vicious menifestations are concerned. Stiddwn quiefly to mike her land speak sootbingly, and rescuingly. If the cow struggles to free herself, coim her fears by a southe pat of the hand and a persuasive tone of voice. Mith her in the game-place and under the same restraint day after day, and in few weeks or months, she can be cured of kicking. The meekest cows sometimes temporarily confront the hight of kicking in defense of abuse from some seuscless nalker. Treat them impassionately, and be perfectly indifferent to their tendency to be light heeled. In a very short time they will be permanently cured. If down switch their caudal appendages in your faces in an attempt to brush off files, don't amputate the offending member, as some do but fifth to the side or the milking stoot schoot schoot stalls should never be cured, as some do but fifth to the side or the milking stoot schoot schoot stalls should never be cured, as it is a wicked, brutal custom, depriving the animal of its means of self-dense against linearts. Humanity and kindless go as far in making a dairy profitable as nutritions.

Undoo Heato in Fattening.

Make beste slowly is a good rule to apply generally. Animals that have been summered on grass will not hear, profitably, to be pushed on grain feed during the fall, as laste in this direction disturbs digestion. Under the action of the laws of nature things are many times made to afford rest to follow any undue exertion of a given part, or of the whole body. Under this law the appetite is taken away when overfeeding hes seen practiced, that compensation, through rest of the directive organs, may occur. Disselite is taken away when overleeding has seen practiced, that compensation, through rest of the directive organs, may occur. Discuss of floor always follows overleeding, yet it is theorising fulsely to say that if the beast gets too much food, it will reduce the amount taken, voluntarily, when sucheited, because deranged digestion follows at once upon excessive feeding, and then what follows? Nothing less than an interruption or nutrition, the body shrinking. This shrinkage can only come tron disordered action—a disease in itself. This must be recovered from hefore nutrition can be resumed, and during this time we suffer a double lo-si mamely, through the shrinkage, in the first place, and through delay from deranged digestion in the second place.

There is still another Tenson why damage may follow indiscrect feeding. Fermentition from indigestion may, to a greater extent than we are aware of, damage the meet of the latiening beast. This damage may happen to its fewor. Nothing can be more reasonable than that it should happen to both. It is a noulling the more reasonable than that it should happen to both. The orection of great curing houses on the American principle at Cork and Limerick has done much to stimulate this trade, and it is shoped that when the land question is settled satisfactorily that much more with ber done in this direction. There are now no peaches grown about Delaware City; the peach beit has moved south on the remineuls. In tyrears peaches have become a precations crop, and it looks now as if the greatest peach country of the world will in a decade be as hare of peach crees as it was when Exphold planted his first orchard. The yellows, the deadly enemy of the peach, has adriven the orchards out of existence, and the average crop, which was a few years ago more than 3,000,000 baskets, it now less than 1,000,000."

seased by a fungus, Phylophthora infebius, which is closely related to the downy mildew upon the grape. It first attacks the leaves, causing them to curl and become "frosty" underside, after which they quickly turn brown and decay. From the leaves the fine threads of the lungus pays to the stems, and if the conditions are favorable, the vines are soon dead and leafless. The potatoes are stic last to be attacked, and may be considerably infested internally before the rot appears. So the loss after harvesting may possibly be more than that occurring in the field.

His conclusions are that all-infested fields should be dug, immediately, and the round others dried, marketed inmediately, if nossible, or stored in shallow bins in a dry, cool, alry place. A sprinkling of air-lancked lime is recommended as a further preventive, and frequent sorting over and removal of all timers that show rot.

On the subject of keeping sound potatoes, a writer in the New York Tribine says: "There is a valuable tesson in the experienced good results from patting a foot of short classy straw over the seed potato heap after the hard February freeze. This extracted frost by gentle degrees and kept all dry, cold and dormany till planting time in May. But it is important that the early potatoes be kept; cool during the hot weather that last long after they are dag. They should have a thick covering of earth from direct rays of the sun, If a cellur is used, it should be aired in this period only during the cool hours of night and early norming."

Saving Opious. A correspondent of the Globe-Democrat gives the following method of saving onions: First, let them get ripe. This is when the top dies and next to the outon looks dead. Gather them when they are perfectly dry and put them in a cool dry pluce; scatter them where the hir can pass under and above. The top should be removed at once. A pair of sheet shears is the best thing to remove them with. Place them with top down so they can dry out. If placed, in a cool, dry place where the sun cannot reach them, they will kneep ustil freezing weather. Never allow your onions to stay in the sun, as it will injure them. Take them to your place of keeping from the patch as soon as gathered. Alfalia Parielto .

In buildin No. 8 of the Colorado experiment station we find the following description of dodder, a plant which promises to be a great peat to alidalia growers:

The stams of the dodder are orange or geddish colored, and consist of small, fleshy tendrils twisted around a branch. In this region, whore seeds rarely persua from ontoward conditions, the dodders may become an enemy to the growth of the plants mentioned.

crot close to the ground and then burning it.

But this would have to be done thoroughly, as, in the case of alfalfa, the dodder flowers quite close to the grobnd, where it cannot easily be seen, and a few seeds remaining continues the plant another year.

It is, however, much easier to provent its introduction than to get rid of it; for when such a plant has obtained in foothold it has been shown to be extremely difficult to exterminate, or to keep in check.

Alfalfa seeds are about two lines long and about one and one fourth broad, while dodder seeds her little more than half the size. Size.

It clover and alfalfa seeds are well sifted through a seive of proper size, the dodder will be readily separatiff. If crops are to be free from the dodder pests, the farmer must see to it that the seed for the crop is clean.

And when he has this amount saved from his first year he is entitled to his own wages. And when he has this amount saved from his first year's labor, it is for better for him; and is heaver guarantor d of his future instependence, than he will if he were to be given $100,000 when of rge. Any young man in hearth can and should save one-half of his wages at lets. A nest-ego of $100 is a sacred thing in he estimation of a properly constituted young man. No farm is complete without a good house to store the implements in, and no farmer understands his business that does not store has implements when they are not in use. A correspondent of the Country Gentloman asserts very positively that sweet cream, properly handled, does not make greasy butter, neither does track in arona. "Very often in the spring and fall I have churned sweet cream, the butter being perfectly granulated, without the least shew of being salvy or greasy. And as nice and perfect a

Bran is considered one of the best foods for all classes of stock, and it is rich in phacphates. A stock grower, writing to the New Engined Homestead, allima is that cattle do not relich hay which they have breathed upon all night, and suggests that their mangers should have an opening into the feeding aley, in a way to permit them to push out what they do not eat.
